Retirement, a period of change

Increasing life expectancy, better and cheaper means of transportation and new communication technologies create new retirement options. Retirees may decide to travel more or to move to a country other than the one in which they have spent most of their adult life.

The objective of this research is to study the international mobility of retirees. In particular, I would like to understand what this mobility brings to retirees, which factors influence it, and which difficulties they encounter.

Who is this research aiming at?

I am looking for retirees who have spent most of their (adult) life in Switzerland and who are currently living for at least three months per year (in total) in Morocco or Spain.

If your profile fits this description and if you are interested in participating in such an interview, I would be delighted to hear your story! If you know someone who meets the outlined criteria, please do not hesitate to share this flyer. Thank you very much for supporting this research project!

Who is behind this research?

This research is conducted by the University of Neuchâtel and the Haute école de travail social in Geneva within the framework of the nccr – on the move, which is devoted to studying questions of migration and mobility. It is funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation. For more information, click on this link.
